A TOOL FOR ENHANCING NATIONAL PREPAREDNESS

Lessons Learned Information Sharing (LLIS.gov) is a US Department of Homeland Security/Federal Emergency Management Agency program. LLIS.gov serves as the national, online network of lessons learned, best practices, and innovative ideas for the emergency response and homeland security communities. This information and collaboration resource helps emergency response providers and homeland security officials prevent, protect against, respond to, and recover from terrorist attacks, natural disasters, and other emergencies. LLIS.gov provides Federal, State, and local responders with a wealth of information and front-line expertise on effective planning, training, and operational practices across homeland security functional areas.

LLIS.gov at a Glance

- Online since April 19, 2004
- Over 50,000 registered members
- Over 14,000 documents, including more than 1,700 state and local plans, 700 after-action reports, and 900 original content documents
- Secure message boards and collaboration tools
- Targeted information on current homeland security topics

Training

LLIS.gov has created this page as a single source for information on training. This page features LLIS.gov original content, publications from the Office of Grants and Training, links to training sites, templates, guides, and other training resources.

LLIS.gov needs your help. Active feedback and input from our members enables LLIS.gov's continued expansion and helps us meet the ever-changing needs of the emergency response community. Please take time to improve your community: submit After-Action Reports, Practice Notes, Lessons Learned, plans, templates, strategies, and other relevant information.
